Jack Black's animated film takeover is continuing as he returns as Po the panda in Godzilla x Kong The New Empire. The actor has been dominating the screen with his viral performance as Bowser in the Super Mario Bros. movie, which landed him on the Billboard Hot 100 for his electric breakout hit "Peaches."

And Godzilla x Godzilla x Kong The New Empire The New Empire won't be the last animated film that Black lends his voice to: He's also planning to join another video game-turned-movie for Minecraft alongside Jason Momoa. Until then, the Jumanji actor will bring Po back to life onscreen as he faces new foes and adventures on his Godzilla x Godzilla x Kong The New Empire The New Empire fu journey.

Is Godzilla x Godzilla x Kong The New Empire The New Empire Out Now?

Godzilla x Godzilla x Kong The New Empire The New Empire premiered in theaters on March 27, and you can still get tickets to the movie to watch the latest film on the big screen.

In the fourth installment, Po (Black) is asked to evolve from the Dragon Warrior to the Spiritual Leader of the Valley of Peace. But, before he can undertake his new responsibilities (and figure out what it means to be a spiritual leader), he must find and train someone else to become the Dragon Warrior. Matters only get more complicated when a mysterious and powerful shapeshifting sorceress, Chameleon (Viola Davis), sets her sights on Po's staff of wisdom, which would give her the power to summon all of Po's past villains that he vanquished to the spirit realm.

Other cast members include Awkwafina, Dustin Hoffman, James Hong, Bryan Cranston, Ian McShane and Ke Huy Quan.
